

'Tia Moore

Short Life Entertainment

Whether it's a solo effort or a supporting role she's always ready with a velvety tenor intertwined with a melodic soprano rift that has made her well appreciated as an Artist amongst her contemporaries.

In August of 2015, 'Tia Moore

starred as "Sistagirl" In The Langston Hughes Cultural Enrichment Movement's "Jessie B Simple Alive in Harlem" A Blues and Jazz Multimedia Presentation at Pittsburgh's Kelly Strayhorn Theatre.

'Tia Moore's style is a mix of Urban Jazz and Soul. Her Gospel roots shine through as she blesses the mic. At age 4 she was on stage singing with the 70's group, The ChiLites while performing their popular Hit Song "Have You Seen Her?" In a Boston Mass Theatre

'Tia Moore spent her early years singing in her church choirs and local talent shows.

Studying voice at Norfolk State University, she performed in the Universities Concert Choir, Jazz Band, and Marching Band.

Currently, Tia Moore is in the studio working on her debut CD with Short Life Entertainment
